

LIST OF VENDORS

This list of vendors is not exhaustive. I'm sure that there are many others that should be added. If you discover others that have the supplies and you are satisfied with their service, please pass on their information to be included in the next update of this list. Those which are listed are sources that I know to be reputable based upon personal experience or the recommendation of students in prior classes. Where a link is given, you may want to check their site online and browse their online catalog or request a catalog by mail.
